About SAIC

SAIC provides geospatial products, services, and solutions for a range of industries including agriculture, defense, energy, forestry, and water management. Our Geospatial (or Geographic) Information Systems (GIS) specialists take pride in innovative integration of remote sensing imagery, geolocation databases, and custom software to create unique and powerful information that improves decision making, operations, and planning. For over 30 years, researchers, planners, and policy makers have trusted SAIC to deliver timely, accurate, and high-quality geospatial information.

SAIC specializes in developing and integrating advanced technology to support GIS and imagery data production and dissemination. SAIC is an industry leader offering full life-cycle support for enterprise geospatially-enabled solutions and products. SAIC is a leading provider of state-of-the-art geospatial data and information system solutions. We maintain technology independence so that our customers can always be assured of objectivity towards best practice in our recommendations and solutions.

SAIC offers a full complement of geospatial services to support its products and to design new solutions for our customers. Our well-qualified team of geospatial engineers, scientists, geographers, image analysts, and IT professionals comprise a full service capability dedicated to helping our customers achieve their strategic and mission objectives. SAIC provides a wide range of services to support our enterprise geospatial systems engineering products and solutions for our customers:

- Business process review and work flow modeling and redesign
- Enterprise geospatial information planning, assessment and requirements
- System architectures and spatially enabled repositories and warehouses
- Performance scaling for high-demand, mission critical solutions
- Database modeling, design, and creation
- Systems and Data integration
- Application and web portal programming and development
- Visualization techniques and data mining
- Operations and maintenance and training

In the spirit of Federal Acquisition Streamlining (FAS), the GSA and the SmartBUY Program Management Office (PMO) has awarded SAIC the Geospatial SmartBUY BPA. The Geospatial SmartBUY BPA provides best value over standard SAIC GSA Schedule 70 pricing. This BPA offers SAIC customers a convenient means of contracting with SAIC combined with best value and convenience of streamlined procurement for selected geospatial products and associated geospatial support services.
